

Tristar Group Head of IT recognized as one of the top CIOs in the Middle East

Congratulations to our Group Head of IT, Adam Lalani, for being recognized as one of the top Chief Information Officers (CIOs) in the Middle East by Computer News Middle East last January 29.

Adam (extreme left) led innovative projects in the company such as Blockchain which makes Tristar the first logistics provider in the region to utilize the technology. Other innovations are the Tyre Pressure and Driver Fatigue Monitoring, while Analytics and Robotics are still works in progress. All these are being implemented through the good team work of the entire IT Department.